

Dear All,
This is the most amazing place. It is called the Cliff Palace and is in the Mesa Verde National Park, Colorado. The Pueblo people built these cliff dwellings around the year 1200, although people had lived here from about 600 AD. The ancestral Pueblo people left their homes and moved away in the late 1200s - I wonder why? There are lots of wild animals here, including bears. I didn't see any Rattlesnakes but I did see a Bullsnake! On the way here, I went to Four Corners where I stood in four states at the same time!

All my love,

Bear
